Friday, October 10. 1707.

From the Paris Gazette, dated October 8.

Rome, Sept. 10.

THE 7th Instant the Ambassador of Venice receiv'd by an Express, the Orders of the Republick touching the Difference in a Point of Ceremony that happen'd between that Minister and this Court in the Chappel held at Sta. Maria Maggiore on the Festival of the Assumption of the Virgin. Those Orders were, that he should demand Satisfaction upon the Resolution the Pope declar'd to have taken, not to invite him to any publick Solemnity, nor to give him Audience any more; and to dispatch a Courier forthwith, if he could not obtain what the Senate desir'd. Notwithstanding this, the Pope did not think fit to cause him to be invited to the Chappel he held on the Festival of the Nativity of the Virgin. Upon which the Ambassador has made great Complaints; and has sent away an Express in all Haste to acquaint his Principals with it. The Towns and other Communities of the Ecclesiastical State, having made great Complaints of the Damage they suffer'd by the Passage which the Pope granted the German Troops to the Kingdom of Naples, and having represented that in several Places they committed the same Disorders as in an Enemy's Country, a particular Congregation is deputed to examine the Memorials sent from all Parts, and to establish Means for making them Satisfaction. A Congregation has been held in the Governour's Palace, about moderating the Sentence of Death pronounc'd against the Marquis Scipione Santa Croce, for killing Baron Gavotti. But the Judges in criminal Affairs having declar'd, that the Moderation of that Sentence which is earnestly solicited by the Cardinals Grimaldi and Santa Croce cannot be allow'd because of the Penalties express'd in the Bulls against Duellists, this Affair remains undetermined. They write from Naples, that the Garrison of Gaeta made a continual Fire from their Cannon and Mortars, with which they much incommoded the Germans, whose Number was too small to carry on the Attacks vigorously. 'Twas talk'd even, that the Siege would be turn'd into a Blockade, at least unless a naval Assistance came, to cut off the Succours which the Place receiv'd from Sicily. The Duke de Matalona has refus'd the Office of Regent of the Vicariat, offer'd him by Count Martiniz, and since given to the Duke della Celeuza. The Neapolitans make great Complaints, that besides the Exactions and extraordinary Taxes with which they are burthen'd, they are oblig'd to furnish Substante to the Cavalry reckon'd at 6000 Horse, tho' 'tis known they do not amount to Half that Number. Count Martiniz as Viceroy, in Order to satisfy them, has demand'd a Muster-Roll of them of Count Taun, who has refus'd to obey, alledging he receiv'd no Orders but the Emperour's.

From the Antw. Cour. and Amst. Gaz. dated Oct. 14.

Milan, Sept. 27. We have Letters from Naples of the 17th Instant, which confirm that Pescara is surrendred to the Imperialists, but say the Garrison are made Prisoners of War: The Duke of Attri who commanded in it, has obtain'd 6 Month's Time to declare himself for King Charles. Count Taun set out from Naples the 17th, for the Camp before Gaeta, to forward the Siege by his Presence: Two Batteries were perfected and had begun to fire against the Place to make Breaches.

From the Amst. Cour. and Leid. Gaz. Oct. 13. and 14.

Vienna, Octob. 1. This being the Birth-day of King Charles III, on which he enters into the 23d Year of his Age, was celebrated at Court with great Magnificence; and on this Occasion a Concert of Musick was perform'd in Honour of his Bride the Princess of Wolfembuttel: Whose Marriage is deferr'd to be solemnly declar'd till the written Consent of her Father the Duke of Wolfenbuttel, which is sent for, be brought hither; and till all the Preparations for that Solemnity are finished. In the mean time rich Coaches are making for her, and costly Furniture for her Apartments. Our Advices from Naples, are, that the Siege of Gaeta goes on but slowly, because the Enemy have the Sea open: But 'tis hop'd some British and Dutch Men of War are sail'd that Way, to facilitate the Attack of the Place. The Archbishop of Colocza, who came hither from Hungary a few Weeks ago, is gone back to Presburg. Last Sunday the King of Sweden's Ratification of the Treaty between him and the Emperour was brought hither; yet the Departure of Count Wratislaw for Silesia is deferr'd from Day to Day. The Swedish Secretary Sternbock is expected here, to take on him the Care of the Swedish Affairs at this Court during the Absence of Baron Strahlenheim, who resides at Breslaw till the said Treaty is executed in Silesia. Count Zobor and the Adjutant of Breslaw, are set at Liberty; having first engag'd their Words not to seek any Revenge on Baron Strahlenheim. They write from Hungary, that the 14th of September General Rabutin pass'd the Tibiscus at Mackva, to continue his March to Transilvania. The Malecontents of Hungary have 6000 Men under the Cannon of Newhensel: General Ozkay who commands them, waits for a strong Reinforcement which Count Caroli has promis'd him, that he may be able to make Head against Count Srearemburg, who has block'd up Neutra, and pretends to do the like to Newhensel.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 14.

Letters from Vienna of the 1st of this Month, import, that notwithstanding the Archbishop of Colocza's late stay of some Weeks at the Imperial Court, and his return to Hungary, there is no Appearance pearance yet of any Accommodation with the Malecontents, though their Deputies have obtain'd nothing in Poland. 'Tis said those Deputies offer'd the Czar, that if he would assist them with Money to maintain their Liberty, they would Elect the hereditary Prince his Son for their King; but his Czarish Majesty told them he would not concern himself at all in their Affairs. These Letters add, that it was still uncertain who would succeed the Prince of Salm in the Ministry: And that the Imperial Court had with the greater Joy receiv'd Assurances of the hearty Dispositions of the Queen of Great Britain and the States General to continue the War, for that the Enemy (to sow Division and Distrust among the Allies) had caus'd it to be rumour'd at Vienna that those two Potentates were inclin'd to make a separate Peace. A Courier that had brought from Rome an Account of the Pope's proceeding against the Prince of Taxis, for putting up over his Palace Gate the Austrian Arms of Spain, was immediately dispatch'd back to Cardinal Grimani, with the Emperour's Sentiments of that Affair, and his Resolution on the Protest made by the Pope's Nuncio against the made Treaty with the K. of Sweden, which his Imperial Majesty has commanded to be punctually executed, and is determin'd to maintain against all the Oppositions of the Court of Rome.

Hague, Octob. 14. 'A Letter, without any Name' subscrib'd to it, being sent lately to the Envoy of this State at the Court of Vienna, he has transmitted it hither. The Writer pretends to be an Englishman, and insinuates, that it may be depended on the Imperial Court are treating of Peace with France, in a secret clandestine Manner: And therefore warns the two maritime Potentates in the Alliance, not to wait till they are left in the Lurch, with all the Burthen of the War upon their Shoulders. This is look'd on here as a little wretched Artifice of the Enemy, and condemn'd accordingly.
